

The 15th hole: Another short par 4 affording players a great opportunity for birdie. The ideal tee shot is just left of the pine tree in the center of the fairway. Long hitters can hit it over the pine, leaving a very short approach shot into this small green. Be careful cutting too much off the right side or you will wind up in the trees.

This is a beautiful hole.

If you are a big hitter, it is possible to drive the green. One of my favorite holes!

Suzanne Mann

One of my favorites!

Dan Huffman

Favorite driving hole. Depending on pin location as to take shortcut right of tree or the safer shot left of pine tree. A really good short par 4.

Scott Weaver

Drivable par 4! The wind determines my strategy though. If hard wind against I lay it up and depend on wedge game to get it up and down. If with wind I'm going for green.

George Munro

Another hole drive is key, depending on pin placement.

Scott Groh

Risk/reward hole. It's drivable but don't miss the green left, right, or long. This is a fun hole and I always go for it.

Robert Blair

I've played with guys who have driven this green and it's a goal of mine. Come close but no cigar! Leave it short below the pin on approach. Love the tree that you have to go over or round makes for a great hole.
