

The 17th hole

This par 3 is our signature hole at Continental Country Club. Although the yardages from the white and red tees are relatively short, a very deep narrow green is guarded in the front by water and on the right side by a bunker and water. Miss the green to the left and you are left with a very difficult chip shot to a slightly elevated green that runs away from you toward the water. A large slope running through the green breaks the green into two distinct levels putting a premium on heading your tee shot into the correct level. Move back to the blue tees against the wind and you now have an intimidating par 3, a three on this hole is a great score.

It plays tougher than it looks. Shoot for the middle of the green and you should make a par. Miss this green and you're on your way to a double...tell me I'm wrong!

I have a love/hate relationship with this hole. If you pull your ball, you will wind up in the valley of death. If you tend to hit more to right, you can wind up in water, or even if you hit green on right, it will roll off into rough. Pin placement is a big deal for me on this hole.

Kim Walsh Vining we feel your pain. LOL

A beautiful par 3 that is always challenging. Aim for the middle of the green as anything on the left side will end up off the green.

My favorite Par 3. Very picturesque and tough pin placements makes putting a challenge. Also the hole where I made my 4th hole in and my most recent.

George Munro

A short hole you can make a big number on. Very picturesque. Lots of water and a tough green to put on some pin placements. Have fun.

Larry Patton

Just a beautiful par 3. Always add at least a half club. Far better to be deep on the green than deep in the pond.

Mike Roberts

Signature hole with water in front and the big pond fountain in the background. Beautiful par 3.

Scott Weaver

Best Par 3 on the course and the signature hole. The hole cut in the back top corner of the green is a great challenge. I love this hole as much as I hate this hole 😊
