

Fairway 3

Third hole; the first par three brings water into play for the first time on the course. Although right of the green, an aggressive shot at a right pin placement brings water into play. Players electing to play away from the water will bring the front bunker into play. Players going over the green will find a hazard only a few places off the back of the green. An approached shot to the middle of the green will leave a player a relatively flat putt for a birdie.

Phyllis Kidwell

Hole in 1!!!

Larry Patton

Seems to play a club longer.

Dan Huffman

Agree don't go long. Right now with new green is a little firm.

Mike Roberts

Trouble on the left, right and back.

Bobby Ratterree

Simple par 3? Nope false front, grade running down the lake, bunker on the left, and a ditch on the back side. Get it high in the air, hit the front of the green and hope it doesn't roll off!
